INTRODUCTION

Classics is the study of the Ancient Greek and Roman worlds from the perspectives of literature, history, archaeology, and art history. For various historical reasons, the Classical world and Classical languages have had an enormous influence on critical contemporary concepts as, for example, democracy, athletics, medicine, politics, and philosophy. Moreover, the literature and art of ancient Greece and Rome continue to be a source of creative inspiration for writers, artists, and filmmakers across the globe.

The University of Winnipeg Classics Department is committed to a critical approach to the ancient Mediterranean world and its diverse historical interpretations. The multicultural nature of the ancient Mediterranean world provides the opportunity to contemplate in the past issues of current importance, such as community identity in multiethnic settings, the influence of various political systems on the historical development of communities, the dynamics of social and economic inequality, the function of literature in the creation of cultural values, and the relationship between technology and leisure - or between technology and the exertion of power. The courses offered are designed to provide a broader and deeper contemplation of ancient society and of ourselves as members of our own contemporary

LATIN AND GREEK

A reasonable number of courses of Latin and Greek is made available to students each year. The introductory courses allow students to begin their study of the Classical Languages with no prerequisites and thus gain access to Latin and Greek literature in the original during the course of their degree. In the introductory courses (CLAS-1100(3), CLAS-1101(3), CLAS-1200(3), and CLAS-1201(3)), students are provided with the linguistic skills necessary to enable them to read Greek and Latin fluently. In the intermediate and senior language courses emphasis is placed on training students to read with comprehension as quickly as possible, and in the process of reading the ancient authors students are acquainted with the vital aspects of Greek and Roman society and culture. A wide range of offerings is available in both Latin and Greek. These courses provide students with the sound linguistic background essential for graduate work.
