Examples of such materials are course outlines, assignment descriptions, lecture notes, test questions, and presentation slidesô irrespective of format. Students who upload these materials to filesharing sites, or in any other way share these materials with others outside the class without prior permission of the instructor/presenter, are in violation of copyright law and University policy. Students must also seek prior permission of the instructor/presenter before, for example, photographing, recording, or taking screenshots of slides, presentations, lectures, and pqvgu qp vj g dqctf 0Uwf gpwu hqwpf vq dg kp xkqncvkqp qh cp kpuvuwevqtø kpvgmgewcnr tqr gtv{ tki j vu could face serious consequences pursuant to the Academic Misconduct or Non-Academic Misconduct Policy; such consequences could possibly involve legal sanction under the Copyright Policy (https://copyright.uwinnipeg.ca/basics/copyright-policy.html).

Students conducting research interviews, focus groups, surveys, or any other method of collecting data from any person, including a family member, must obtain research ethics approval before commencing data collection. Exceptions are research activities done in class as a learning exercise. For submission requirements and deadlines, see http://www.uwinnipeg.ca/research/human-ethics.html

Plagiarism. Even unintentional plagiarism, as described in the UW Library video tutorial õCxqkf kpi Rnci kctkuo ö (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UvFdxRU9a8g), is a form of academic misconduct. Students must follow principles of academic integrity (e.g., honesty, respect, fairness, and responsibility) in their use of material obtained through AI text-generating tools (e.g., ChatGPT, Bing, Notion AI). If an instructor prohibits the use of AI tools in a course, students may face an allegation of academic misconduct if using them to do assignments. If AI tools are permitted, students must cite them.
